MOLLY BLANKENSHIP

ASSOCIATION OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EXECUTIVES (ACCE)

Community Advancement Manager

mblankenship@acce.org

Molly Blankenship is Community Advancement Manager for the Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives (ACCE) where she manages programs related to education attainment, workforce development, and diversity, equity, and inclusion. In her role, Molly serves chambers of commerce across the country by providing professional development, consultation, resources, and technical assistance to help them make a difference in the communities they serve.

Prior to joining ACCE's staff, Molly was an Associate on United Way Worldwide's Network Engagement and Performance team. She also founded and led Reclaim Ourselves, a community organization dedicated to using the arts and arts education to advance social change.

With a passion for relationship building, community engagement, and civic innovation, Molly aims to lead a life and career of impact. She is a graduate of Middle Tennessee State University where she studied political science and social work/advocacy. She lives in Alexandria, Virginia with her husband, Spencer, and daughter Margot.
