

Tara Bellevue

Tara Bellevue is a Senior Managing Director of Network Engagement at NAF and holds a degree in Business Administration and Master's degree in Secondary Education, with a focus on business education, mathematics and school-based leadership. She has vast experience as a teacher, an administrator at the school and district levels, and as President of the Business Teachers Association of New York State. Additionally, Ms. Bellevue is active in the international telecommunication sector and serves as the founder of Today's Girl, Tomorrow's Woman – an organization that empowers young women and holds a leadership conference each year to bring together successful female leaders and high school students. Her work and value-add has made significant progress for aligning operating policies and procedures to federal legislation, state grant funds, and NYSED policies.

Ms. Bellevue has over 15 years of educational experience and has been working with NAF for over four years. Tara oversees a team of five dedicated professionals, who engage and empower the next generation through college and career readiness education. Her responsibilities include developing, recommending, and executing strategies to increase educational and advisory board partnerships; driving the execution of comprehensive contracts; and supporting fund development activities. Through her leadership, young people have been able to receive key opportunities and tremendous support in becoming Future Ready.
